Since January 1996

Twas the holidays of the season
 And how could I not remember?
 When the calendar pages flip
 To the last month of December

I set upon my task
 At end-of-year time
 To craft a melodic message
 And convey my thoughts in rhyme

There are moments to reflect
 On the events of the year
 And think of friends and colleagues
 Some that are far, some that are near

Hong Kong and London
 Were my two big trips
 It was quicker to go by plane
 Than taking cargo ships

For a holiday gift
 No further do you need to look
 Than the August release of
 My supply chain fraud book

Katzscan has grown on Linked In
 And is now on Facebook and Twitter
 Holiday candles reflected glow
 Cause shiny tinsel to glitter

Regardless of how long I've known you
 A lot, a little, or somewhere in between
 Give a cheer for Katzscan
 Because next year is number seventeen

To my friends and supporters
 To those with whom I link
 To my newsletter subscribers
 Who read what I think:

Enjoy your holidays
 Happily, merrily, and with good cheer
 If the world doesn't end in 2012
 Then we'll all be around next year

Best regards,
